First free computer launched

Bangalore:
Asiatotal.net, a Hong Kong based technology company, launched iT, the first free computer here on Friday. The initiative is aimed at providing Internet access to lower-income individuals and small businesses. According to the company, eligible individuals and small businesses will gain access to information in education, medicine, finance and entertainment. The initiative will benefit both end users and corporate partners. The companies participating will gain from a direct channel to maximise business opportunities.
